I'm walking with my iguana

When the temperature rises to above eighty-five,

my iguana is always happy to be alive.

So we walk together on the beach, and me,

then he walks on the boulder.

as I walk on the sand.

Well, he likes to be tickled under his chin,

my iguana loves to be tickled under his chin.

till I tickle him under his chin.

says he, "I love to be tickled under his chin."

It's the spines on his back that make him look grim, but he just loves to be tickled under his chin.

And he just loves to be tickled under his chin.

when he is sleeping on the beach.

With his mouth open, he looks like a guana.

With his mouth open, he looks like a ranha.

and he looks like a chilla,

with his mouth open, he looks like a pillar...

and he looks like a guana.

I'm walking with my iguana.

When the temperature rises to above eighty-five,

my iguana is always happy to be alive.

So we walk together on the beach, and me,

then he walks on the boulder.
